Reminders are important in Memento: Leonard basically creates a pseudo memory system (through mementos) in lieu of the real memory he doesn't have. Leonard's tattoos are his most important mementos—he has all kinds of things written on his body so that there's no way people (aside from himself) can manipulate them, and there's no way he can lose them (aside from, say, dismemberment).

Life by Charlotte Brontë is a three-stanza poem with an alternating line rhyme scheme. This alternate rhyme scheme holds steady throughout the entirety of the poem except for the first and third lines in which "dream" and "rain" do not rhyme. This poem was published in 1846 under Brontë's pen name, Currer Bell.
